Department: Department of General Humanities

Institution type: private university

-----[Content of Job information]-----

[Explanation of institution (recruitment background, institution details, explanation of project, etc.)]

The Department of General Humanities strives to provide a general liberal arts education rooted in the fundamental beliefs of Christianity. Students experience a rich education based on three broad fields (philosophy/thought, culture/arts, and religion/theology) from which they can choose a specific area of interest to research in greater depth.

We are pleased to announce an open search for a full-time Professor, Associate Professor, or Lecturer position (native or near-native level fluency in English and Japanese) in the Department of General Humanities. The successful applicant is expected to teach both 'American Culture (アメリカ文化論)' and 'History of Christianity in America (アメリカ・キリスト教史)'.

[Job details (duties, subjects responsible for, etc.)]

- (1) Teaching 'American Culture (アメリカ文化論)', 'English Reading (英語講読)', 'History of Christianity IV (Modern Time) (キリスト教史 IV[近現代])', and 'Thesis Seminar (論文演習)'
- (2) Teaching university-wide 'basics of Christianity' classes
